GREATER BRYAN NOW ASSURED

TROLLEY LINE SUBSCRIPTION OF $15,000.00 HAS BEEN RAISED. TELEGRAMS OF ACCEPTANCE EXCHANGED BETWEEN KENNEDY AND COMMITTEE.

Bryan has made good.

The money has been raised.

Fifteen thousand dollars awaits Kennedy.

It's up to him.

Hurrah for the committee!

Hurrah for the subscribers!

Hurrah for Kennedy!

Hurrah for everybody!

It was a long hard pull.

But, my, ain't we all glad!

They'll have to make more room on the map for us.

It's the longest step we ever took for a Greater Bryan.

Other good things will follow.

All Bryan has to do is get together and try.

The Bryan-College trolley line committee on yesterday gave out the glad tidings that the $15,000.00 stock subscription has all been raised; that the people of Bryan and College have met the requirements of Mr. Edward Kennedy and wired him to that effect, and that he has replied by wire that he is ready to sign the contract with the committee upon his return from the north.

All that remains is to agree upon the details of the contract and start the work. There is reason to believe this will not long be delayed, as Mr. Kennedy is manifestly anxious to see the dirt fly as the people of Bryan.

The whole matter of the benefits of the enterprise to Bryan and Brazos county, and all therein contained, has been repeatedly presented by the local press, which has worked incessantly for the line, and the Eagle will not here review these matters further than to say that we confidently believe that it marks the beginning of a splendid growth in population, business, attendance on the schools and colleges, manufacturing enterprises, municipal utilities and all that tends for the betterment and upbuilding of the community. We further believe that it is the first link of a system of trolley lines that will revolutionize rapid transit in this section of the state.

The Eagle reproduces above, in celebration of the success of the committee, a picture used in these columns early in the active agitation for the road, and is pleased to know that the great enterprise then forecasted is now assured.

The committee held a meeting yesterday afternoon and appointed three sub-committees to select and secure right-of-way over three separate routes, so that Mr. Kennedy and his engineers will have less difficulty in locating the line.

The trolley line committee is composed of the following business men: R. S. Webb, chairman; W. E. Saunders, A. W. Wilkerson, E. H. Edge, Tyler Haswell, G. M. Brandon, F. M. Law, A. M. Waldrup, H. O. Boatwright, J. Webb Howell.

Desirable room and board for two gentlemen or man and wife. Apply at Gen. Stoddard's residence. 249

JEFF BENNEFIELD INJURED.

Young Man from Jefferson the Victim of a Serious Accident.

Jeff Bennefield, a young man about eighteen years of age, from Jefferson, Texas, was the victim of a serious accident here yesterday evening. According to his own statement he attempted to cross a freight train near the H. & T. C. depot, when he fell and had his right foot almost cut off at the ankle by the wheels, rendering amputation necessary.

The young man arrived in the city yesterday and entered Allen Academy, and was down town by permission of one of the instructors to meet a friend. Immediately following the accident Drs. Raynor and Mondrick and the principals of the Academy were notified and came to the unfortunate young man's assistance. He was removed to a comfortable and conveniently located room in the Howell building and every possible attention was given him.

He showed splendid nerve and no more serious results than the loss of his foot are anticipated. The accident is deeply deplored by everybody, and it is the first time in the seven years history of the Academy a student has ever been seriously injured.

The amputation was made about four inches below the knee, and the young man was resting well at 11 o'clock last night.

Proclamation Issued.

Oyster Bay, Sept. 20.—The president has issued a proclamation opening the Kiowa, Comanche and Apache Indian lands in Oklahoma. The interior department will announce the day for the reception of sealed bids under which the 505,000 acres of lands are to be disposed of to homesteaders.

Great Fire Loss.

Buenos Ayers, Sept. 20.—Customs dock No. 4 has been destroyed by fire. The damage is estimated at several million paper dollars. The shipping is safe. The Argentina paper dollar is worth about 42 cents.

Fatal Fall From Window.

Shreveport, Sept. 20.—Andrew D. Wells fell from a second story window, and died soon afterwards from his injuries.

BURGLARS ROB BANK

Eight Masked Men Who Were Also Amply Armed

SECURED MUCH CASH

They Blew Open Safe In One Establishment and Were at Work In Another When Citizens Appeared on Scene.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 20.—Eight well masked and heavily armed burglars held the people at White Cloud, a village forty-five miles north of here, at bay while they rifled the Newaygo County bank and attempted also to rob the banking house at A. R. Gannon & Son. The deed was done shortly after midnight this morning.

The eight men rode into the village, surrounded the buildings containing the two banks and posted guards outside, while the other members of the gang worked inside.

The interior of the Newaygo County bank was completely wrecked by the explosion. The burglars got between $2,000 and $4,000 in cash.

Dynamite was then used to wreck the interior of the Gannon bank, but while the cracksmen were at work the people of the village, awakened by the explosion, gathered, guards called the men inside the bank out before they got the safe open. Coming the citizens with guns, the bandits rode away.

FATALITIES ENORMOUS.

Property Damage Estimated at Fully Twenty Million Dollars.

Hongkong, Sept. 20.—The full extent of the typhoon disaster is not yet known, but conservative estimates place the number of Chinese who lost their lives at 5,000, and total material damage to colony at $20,000,000. Reports of disasters at sea are constantly being received here.

The steamer Albatross, with 150 passengers on board, foundered near Futaumen Pass. Only six passengers and two of the crew saved. They swam ashore. The steamer Hongkong was also lost and the entire crew is missing. The steamer Ying Fat, from Sam Chun, foundered and 730 passengers and ten of her crew are missing. Only two of the crew are known to have been rescued.

Mrs. Hoare and a searching party have returned. They found no trace of her husband, Joseph Charles Hoare, Anglican bishop of Victoria, whose yacht was lost during the typhoon.

Captain Thomas, commander of the river steamer Fatshan, whose Chinese crew clammed on board the French mail steamer Polynesian when the Fatshan collided with her, saved the vessel and 150 Chinese passengers by splendid seamanship. Fortunately the engine room staff stuck heroically to its post. Captain Thomas was left almost single handed on the deck. He took the wheel and navigated the Fatshan for one hour and forty minutes through the tempestuous sea and finally beached the vessel safely. It is believed she can be refloated without trouble.

Another storm, less violent however than the typhoon, broke here at midnight and blew for six hours. The damage apparently was not great.

The staff of the Jardine Matheson sugar refinery rescued 200 Chinamen from the sinking sampans.

Losses of the Kowloon Godown Warehouse company are estimated at $750,000. Forty thousand bales of yarn which were in storage at the Kowloon will probably be irretrievably damaged. The beach is littered with valuable silks and many looters have been arrested here and at Kowloon. There are ample supplies of rice to relieve the distress.

There were 700 Chinese passengers on board the steamer Keung Shan from Macao, which stranded off Lantau Island. All European passengers, including three women were saved. Many Chinese, including women, were drowned. The total number of deaths are not known. The position of the Keung Shan is hopeless.

The Last Resort.

BY RALPH RECORD.

ight, 1906, by Daily Story Pub. Co.) seemed as if the next step must be it, but I kept on—running, running—till my legs felt like two sticks likely to snap under the weight of my weary body. I tried to stop, with my hand, the sharp pain side and wondered, half-consciously, how long my heart could stand arduous strain.

was not my crime that sent me flying, breathlessly, along that road at two o'clock in the morning with a crowd of angry farmers following a quarter mile behind. I was guilty, but I might as well have sank Heaven! I had a good start, if what good is a start when a man most dead from fatigue? If I could have been hours, before I again awoke and my almost crazed brain brought me back to a realization of my situation. The steady whirr of car wheels had ceased, but I seemed to be riding still. Then it came to me—I was in a hearse on my way to some house or church, perhaps to a cemetery. The motion stopped and I heard muffled voices.

Then—oh, thank God! They were going to open the box; some one wanted to see for the last time the face of Henry Donnelly. For a moment I doubted. Could it be? Yes, they were unscrewing the top. In sheer joy I almost fainted again.

At last, I heard the box top removed. Then, suddenly, the instinct of self-preservation came to me in another form. What would they do when they saw it was not Henry Donnelly. I should have to explain my presence there. I had committed an awful crime. I was a body snatcher.

Then I saw the light. Oh, it was grateful! Light! I had thought never see it again. It dazzled me, and I shut my eyes. Then I opened them full and wide.

Two faces were bending over me, two faces full of horror. One was a woman's face, old, wrinkled—the other a man's, gaunt, hypocritical. I opened my mouth to speak, and with a cry that echoed in my memory even now, the woman threw up her arms and fell across the coffin in a swoon. The man, with a look of superstitious terror, turned and fled.

More dead than alive, I crawled out, somehow and tried to bring the woman back to consciousness. After awhile her eyes opened partly, and I saw she was better. Something—I do not know what—impelled me to bend over and kiss her brow. She looked so old and careworn.

Slowly and painfully I slunk out through the rear of the cemetery and walked till I reached some woods. I lay down where the morning sun shone through the trees, and looked up at God's blue sky for hours. At last, hungry, faint and weary, I boarded a freight train and left Jackson City far behind.

I wonder who Henry Donnelly was, and if that old and wrinkled woman with the careworn face was his mother. Sometimes I start from my sleep, fighting, pushing back the great indescribable black thing that seems to shut me from the light.

INDIANS CALLED MOQUIS.

How the Hopi People Came to Be Designated by Objectionable Name.

To those few in the outer world who ever heard of them at all they are mostly known as Moquis—this through the publicity gained by their annual Snake Dance, says the Craftsman. But Moqui or Moki is a misnomer. Hopi is how they would have us know them—because it is right, and because it means something to them and is justly symbolic of their racial characteristics. Peaceful—gentle is its significance—and the worst word they know to apply to an offender is ka-hopi—the negative of Hoji—or pas-ka-hopi, the superlative of this; and anyone as bad as this is hopeless. Moki in their language means dead, and the accepted theory of its first application to them as a tribal name is that the Navajo, their long-time enemy in a spirit of derision so called them on account of their distaste for warfare, and love of a quiet-stay-at-home life. According to the Navajo code they were "dead ones." From the Navajo, whose country entirely surrounds the Hopi, the early traders and settlers acquired the word Moki before ever seeing the Hopi; and from the trader it easily passed without question to the government representatives, so it now stands as the official appellation in the Indian department. But ask a Hopi if he is a Moqui—his quick resentment will be convincing enough.

Put in Plain United States.

It was in a case before the supreme court of Maine. A party had sued the Boston & Maine railroad to recover damages for personal injuries. The company's attorney, Mr. Yeaton, was examining the plaintiff, a rather illiterate man from one of the rural districts, and was endeavoring, apparently, to confuse him.

"Did you say an abrasion of the tibia?" he asked.

The witness stared helplessly at his questioner.

"I say," again ventured the attorney, "was there a contusion of the scia?"

The witness was ready to collapse, when his attorney, Lawyer Copeland, who had a voice like a megaphone, cried out: "He wants to know did he bark his shin?"—Boston Herald.

Why He Was Glad.

"My son," said the strict mother, at the end of a moral lecture, "I want you to be exceedingly careful about your conduct. Never, under any circumstances, do anything which you would be ashamed to have the whole world see you doing." The small boy turned a handspring, with a whoop of delight.

"What in the world is the matter with you? Are you crazy?" demanded the mother.

"No'm, was the answer. "I'm jes' so glad that you don't 'spec' me to take no baths never any more!"—Lippincott's Magazine.

TAKE PORTABLE HOUSES.

Iron Homes Now Go as Part of the Equipment of Camping Parties.

Chicago is not only furnishing the thousand and one resorts in Michigan and Wisconsin with people enough to afford a living, but it is sending to take and maintain the portable houses to live in, says the News. Nowadays when a Chicagoan makes ready to go away on his vacation, literally he may fold up an iron house and steal away where there is nothing but forests and fish. He may almost put his cabin in his suit case.

A Ravenswood man is at work on the portable cabins. The frames of the cabins are made of angle bars, and the sides and the roof are of corrugated galvanized iron. Some of the iron houses are planned with six rooms and a latticed porch. They weigh from a ton up and cost from $125 to $800. They are screwed together on the grassy sward to see that every part fits all right, and then they are taken apart and shipped in the knockdown. The other day one of the Chicago iron cabins was shipped out to the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, and another will be set up on one of the mountain sides of Estes park, Colorado. Each cabin is fitted with a good floor and other conveniences. If an owner becomes weary of a locality he may take down his house and move away with it. One of these cabins is a veritable bomb proof, indeed it is bear proof, for no specimen of the bruin tribe would be able to eat his way into one.

Some of the cabins are fitted with wooden sides, but whether they are of iron or wood they have windows and good-fitting doors.

CHEAP VISIT TO ENGLAND.

Nine Weeks of Travel Across the Atlantic and Back for a Small Sum.

There is only one unforgettable vacation—a trip to England, through England, and home again, says Country Life in America. Nine weeks of travel can be had for $125, and this easy price includes the full expenses of both ocean voyages. Bicycle clothes and flannel shirts make up one proprietor costume. The ordinary sack suit with long trousers is equally serviceable. The luggage for walking will be carried in cloth-covered India rubber knapsack. This is light, portable, and rainproof. If the traveler makes his way by bicycle, he should nearly limit his luggage to the dimensions of a diamond frame case. The slight overflow will be made into a thin bundle strapped to the handle bars, or to the frame behind the saddle. A "stripped" wheel is essential, guard and bell and brake being of the lightest.

The ocean trip is made in the second cabin of one of the lines plying between New York and Glasgow—the cost is $30 single and $60 for the round trip. The food is not poor, and there is abundance of deck room. The time from dock to dock is ten and one-half days, so the total time on water is 21 days, and on land six weeks.

PAID FOR OLD THEFT.

Linen Stolen Twenty-Three Years Ago Gets Upon a Woman's Conscience.

A remarkable case of the goading of a guilty conscience is that of a woman now living on the Pacific coast, but who 23 years ago was a resident of this locality, doing her trading in the village of Warsaw, says a Warsaw (N. Y.) correspondent of the Buffalo Times.

On the occasion of one of Thomas S. Glover's dry goods sales days, which at that time were quite an event to the bargain hunters, a woman, whose name for obvious reasons is withheld, was in the store, which was crowded. During the rush a roll of table linen was pushed from the counter to the floor. It fell just in front of her. She stooped down, picked it up and, unobserved, secreted it and left the store. Mr. Glover received a penitent letter from the woman the other day in which she states the circumstances and time and incloses the price of the goods, with interest upon the same, stating the anguish she has experienced.

Her letter closes as follows: "Now, Mr. Glover, I have confessed all. If you can and will forgive me, and it is not too much trouble, will you write me saying: 'I forgive you?' Penitently yours."

Strange Sequel of a Dream.

A remarkable story of a dream is reported from Penge, England. Mrs. Howling, of Maple road, Penge, on Thursday dreamed that her 11-year-old daughter had been washed ashore at Hastings and that the body was recovered on a tarpaulin.

On Saturday the child was run over by a pantomime close to her home, and the wheels went over her chest, causing very serious injuries. She was picked up by some persons who witnessed the incident, placed on a tarpaulin and removed to the Beckham Cottage hospital, where she lies in a very serious condition.

Paper Corks.

A remarkable invention has just been perfected and patented. It is a machine which makes corks out of waste paper and paper pulp. All kinds of waste paper can be made into corks, which are superior to the regular sort, as they are not affected by acids or oils. They have been tested by leading chemists and the largest users of corks and it is claimed for them that they are far superior to the old style in every way.

THE NUMBERS OF HOUSES

Great Difficulty Sometimes Experienced at Night in Deciphering Them.

"In view of the fact that so many houses have been renumbered, owing to the change of the names of streets," said a physician to a Washington Star reporter, "it is timely to suggest that some effective way should be devised to require property owners to display conspicuously in all instances the street number of their houses.

In visiting patients, especially at night, the physicians of this city experience a great deal of annoyance in this respect, and no doubt it is an inconvenience experienced by the general public as well. One would imagine that self-interest would cause house owners to number their premises plainly and to keep the figures in good condition by repainting whenever necessary, but such is not the case in a surprisingly large number of dwellings. Owners should be required to letter the numbers of their houses without exception on the glass transoms over the front door to the end that the numbers may be easily distinguished by night as well as by day.

It is often difficult to locate a particular house on a block at night except by running the houses along, taking the one which displays its number on the glass over the door guide. In other cases the little square tin pieces bearing the house number tacked over the doorways are so weather worn that they cannot be distinguished even in the daytime. If there is an ordinance or police regulation covering this point it is now a good time to resurrect it and put it into force."

GAME DOGS DON'T EAT GAME

Remarkable Instance of the Influence of Heredity in Lower Life.

The setter ate the mutton chop greedily, but he would have none of the partridge bones, says the New Orleans Times-Democrat.

"A good game dog," said his master, "can't eat game. Its taste is repugnant to him. This is a remarkable instance of the influence of heredity.

"Game dogs have been trained for many generations not to eat the game—the birds and rabbits, and what not—which they bring back to their masters in their mouths. They have been trained to consider that the eating of such game would be a disgrace and an unpardonable sin, the same as bank clerks have been trained to consider that the pocketing of a few dollars from the millions they annually handle would be a disgrace and a sin."

"And the result in the game dog's case has been that this moral abhorrence of game suggested to them by their masters has been transmuted, in its passage down from one generation to another, into an actual physical abhorrence. In the matter of game, thanks to heredity, game dogs now are never tempted. They can't sin."

DATE AND RICE EXPERTS.

Arabians and Burmese Who Can Distinguish Between Many Kinds with Ease.

"There's date experts in the Sahara," said the sailor; "men that can distinguish the '57 varieties' of the date as easy and accurate as you or me could distinguish the various vegetables.

"As I steered my desert ship from Biskra to Touggourt last winter, I learned a lot about dates. I'd thought, the same as you, that there was only one kind. I found, by erinus, that there was 79 kinds. And the Arab expert, the date merchant, he could tell them 79 kinds apart with ease.

"All the world's dates comes from the Sahara. They grow in the oasis. The date palms need just a little water, along with the hottest kind of a hot sun—a desert sun. The varieties of the date is amazin'. I know myself nine varieties.

"It's the same with rice in Burmah. The best rice comes from Burmah, and there's 102 kinds of it, which the Burmese rice grower has no difficulty in differentiatin'."

SHUT UP BY FREMONTER

One of the Incidents of a Campaign That Was Full of Excitement.

It was in the midst of the Fremont campaign, and the old story that the Pathfinder had killed a lot of cows to keep his explorers from starving was turned against the would-be president, says Judge's Magazine of Fun. Fairfield was the speaker at Fawle's Grove, near Moscooe, southern Michigan. Midway in his address the speaker had pictured the raising of the stars and stripes on Fremont park, when an old Democrat thought to check the spell of eloquence and yelled out:

"What about them cows?"

No attention was paid to it, and again the farmer cried out:

"Tell us about them cows! Tell us about them cows! We want them cows!"

Fairfield turned half-face to the intruder and said:

"Has any farmer present got a new milch cow? If so, for heaven's sake, drive her up and let that critter suck."

The applause lasted many minutes.

FISH HAWKS NEST ON BUOY

Channel Mark Selected by Pair of the Birds Makes Snug Home.

An accident which is described as without precedent in the history of diving operations has been the subject of magisterial inquiry at Simons town, says a Cape Town correspondent of the London Chronicle. Two divers, Kramming and Macphail, were at work at some levels on the new dock yard works at Simonstown. They were working at a depth of about 50 feet, and, though they did not go down together, they met under water, and were, it appeared from the evidence, discussing by means of signs the position in regard to the levels on which they were working.

According to the statement of the survivor, Macphail, he saw his companion's helmet suddenly fly off. In this desperate position the drowning man clung to Macphail, who gave the signal to the boat overhead to haul in, and the two men were drawn up to within ten feet of the surface. At this point the hauling ceased, the men in the boat being unable to raise the heavy weight further, and Macphail was compelled to loose his hold of his drowning comrade, who sank to the bottom. The other man reached the boat, and immediately went down again, but Kramming was lying face downward on the bottom, and was dead when they finally got him to the surface.

The father bird has but to step out to the door of his house, either front or back, and, watching his water lawn for a moment or two, make a dive and come up with a supply of food for his family. It looks as if it were a pair of wise birds which selected a nesting place.

FOXHOUND PAYS OWN TAX

Faithful Canine Keeps After Reynard and Lands Him at Every Turn.

Josiah Edgerly, of Atkinson, and his foxhound had run down and caught last winter 19 foxes, and still the hunter was not satisfied, says the Bangor (Me.) News. He desired to round out an even 20 for good luck. So he kept on the track of a big fox for several days, but could not get a shot. It was left for the dog to do the trick alone and earn his own tax for the year.

In his master's absence one day the dog started out alone and was gone all day. About nightfall the family heard baying near by, and saying quite plainly: "I have a fox cornered, and should like a little assistance, if you please."

"So my wife ran across the road," said Mr. Edgerly, "and found the dog sitting in front of a neighbor's barn, and under the barn, with his eyes showing like coals of fire, was the fox. My dog planned just right, he did, for I drove into the yard just at this time, and my wife called to me to fetch my rifle. But before I could get there the hound had finished the job, and in such close quarters that he couldn't get out again without we moved part of the floor. And it isn't every dog can pay his own tax, now, I tell ye."

Good Looking Young Woman in Restaurant Is Helped by Fair Cashier.

An attractive and altogether "bonny" young business woman of this city came here with a large stock of propriety and a small amount of practical knowledge of the world to carve out her fortune, after passing her girlhood days in Edinburgh and London. Although without any undue amount of self-consciousness or egotism, says the Philadelphia Record, she is sometimes annoyed by the very evident admiration she attracts in public places.

The other day, while dining in a restaurant, she fancied that the man opposite was preparing to speak to her, as he glanced her way, and seemed to be making up his mind to open a conversation. The young woman assumed a most frigid air and looked as unapproachable as the arctic nine varieties.

The man as he left the table made one more half-hearted attempt to speak, blushed red to his ears, then hurried away. When the young woman finished her luncheon and called for her check, the waitress amazed her by exclaiming: "Why, I thought you were with that gentleman. I put your check and his together." The bill had manfully been settled.

ALMOST 9,000 FIRES.

The Annual Average for New York City—One-Fifth the Country's Total.

New York averages 8,700 fires a year. Chicago has 4,100.

The average record in this country, reports the Fireproof Magazine, is 3 theaters, 3 public halls, 12 churches, 10 schools, 2 hospitals, 2 asylums, 2 colleges, 6 apartment houses, 3 department stores, 2 jails, 26 hotels, 140 flats and nearly 1,600 homes burned up every week in the year.

We indulged in 45,000 fires last year, some of them wiping out many buildings. We are born gamblers, are we Americans, and seem placidly to take our chances on fire, believing probably, that those chances are somewhat remote.

As a matter of fact, however, the country over, each family has just one chance in 60 of being burned out some time during the year; not a very long shot after all.

Bryan will shortly be extending an invitation to the people of neighboring towns to come and enjoy a trolley ride to the A. & M. College.

A Texas locomotive fireman has invented a device for feeding the oil into the fire box with his foot while he reads the sporting page in the newspapers. The engineer's opinion of the contraption would probably not look well in print.

Brenham reports a rush for naturalization papers, owing to the new law which goes into effect Sept. 27. A Brenham special says:

The fact that the new naturalization law, with its increased cost, the difference between the present price, $2.50 and $12.50, and that foreigners must be residents of the United States for two years before they can get naturalization papers, and be able to talk English, is causing a rush of business both at the County Clerk's and District Clerk's office, both courts at present having jurisdiction, but only the District Court after the new law goes into effect. District Clerk Krug has made out final naturalization papers for over 200 citizens of Washington and adjoining counties.

"HOOSIER GIRL" AT OPERA HOUSE TONIGHT.

The officers of the State Fair at Dallas were installed in the handsome new administration building on Monday of this week, where they are fixed up in swell shape. The old office building which has stood for twenty-one years at the entrance to the grounds, will this week be hauled to the livestock department, where it will be used as headquarters by the officers of that department.

God bless the girl who works! She is not too proud to earn her own living nor ashamed to be caught at her daily task. She smiles at you from behind the counter, desk or printer's case. There is a sweet memory of her in everything she touches. She is like the brave mountaineer, already high up the precipice—climbing, struggling, rejoicing. The very sight is an inspiration. It is an honor to know this girl and be worthy of her esteem. Lift your hat to her, young man, as she passes by. She's a queen in the realm of womanhood. Her hand may be stained by dishwashing, factory grease or printer's ink, but it is a helping hand. It stays misfortune from the home; it supports an invalid loved one, maybe; it is a moving, potent shield that protects many a family from the poorhouse. All honor to the brave toiler! God bless and protect the girl who works!—Greenville Herald.

"The Hoosier Girl" was presented at the Grand last evening; those present were apparently very much pleased with the clean and wholesome little play. The play is one of the best rural comedies that has been presented in the city for some time, and Miss Kate Watson as "Roxana," the "Hoosier Girl," has a lively, jolly part, which she carries out to perfection. She has an easy, natural style, and is very much at home with the audience from her first appearance.

In the second act she sang, "A Heart to Heart Talk," and "Ma's Afraid I'll Get Stole," which delighted the audience, and as encore she gave "There Ain't Going to Be No Core." Mr. Gus Cohan as Heinrich Wetzel, the German farmer boy, created much amusement in his clever character sketch. He is a clever comedian, and with the good support from the rest of the company, a very pleasing performance was given, the story being a simple romance along familiar lines. The songs and dances and musical numbers united to make a good quantity of fun—Galveston News.

A Story of Ole Bull.

A curious tale of Ole Bull is told in a book on violins and violinists. It seems that in 1831, being then twenty-one years of age, the famous violinist wandered to Paris. The cholera was raging and Malibran singing. He went to hear her, and his landlord decamped with his possessions, including his violin. He was speedily reduced to extremity. During the last dinner that he was able to pay for he made the acquaintance of a remarkable man. To this stranger Ole Bull confided his miseries. At the conclusion the stranger said abruptly, "Well, I will do something for you if you have courage and 5 francs." "I have both," said Bull. "Then go to Frascati's tonight at 10 o'clock, pass through the first room, go into the second, where they play roulette and when a new roulette begins put your 5 francs on roulette and leave it there." Bull did as directed, and when his 5 francs had become 400 he took them up after an episode with a woman who attempted to take them. Red continued to win, and had he left his money longer he would have won an independent sum. The stranger, who was present as his elbow, was Videoc, the French detective, already a European celebrity.

Turkey's Way of Raising Revenue.
The land in all Turkey and her dependencies belongs to the reigning sultan and is only occupied at his will. It is divided among those who wish to cultivate it at a nominal rental of one-fifth of the produce, which goes directly to the crown. Three-fifths more are taken from the lessee on other pretexts, all for the maintenance of the government, the pashas in each district having the authority to lease the ground and collect the taxes, which may be in kind or money. If crops are short, they take four-fifths of all the man has in animals and even in household utensils, sometimes all his possessions, to make up the deficiency which Providence has withheld. Everything that can produce, be it a tree, beast, fowl, worm or the labor of a man and his family, is subject to the four-fifths tax. Those who toil at any labor or trade other than agriculture are taxed also pro rata according to their wages and must pay or go to prison.—Pearson's Weekly.

How to Remove a Corn; Try It.

Expose the corn and pass the finger tips of your right hand over it slowly and caressingly, at the same time sending a vibration from the brain to the corn. If it is a soft corn 413 vibrations per second will suffice; if a hard corn, put on a forced draft. Repeat slowly, "I am now sending a current of thought force into my corn and so separating, deducing, disintegrating, rendering, splitting, sundering, splintering, snapping, dwelleating, whittling, dispersing, dislocating, eliding, divorcing, pulverizing, slashing, slicing and dissecting it that presently it will pass away. Repeat it three times; then, with rising infection, "Avant, avant, avant!" Finish by repeating the password: "The universe is mine. I am it." The corn will at first look extremely surprised, then wilt and fade beautifully from sight.—New Thought.

A Nice Distinction.

A well known Atlantan has a wife with a sharp tongue. Jones had come home about 2 in the morning rather the worse off for a few highballs. As soon as he opened the door his wife, who was waiting for him in the accustomed place at the top of the stairs, where she could watch his uncertain ascent, started upbraiding him for his conduct. Jones went to bed and when he was almost asleep could hear her still scolding him unmercifully. He dropped off to sleep and awoke after a couple of hours, only to hear his wife remark, "I hope all the women don't have to put up with such conduct as this." "Annie," said Jones, "are you talking again or yet?"—Kansas City Star.

OPERA HOUSE OPENING.

"The Sweetest Girl in Dixie" was the opening attraction at the opera house last night, and drew a fair sized audience. The play is similar to attractions seen here previously, and furnishes sentiment and comedy features, the latter being somewhat exaggerated with the usual license of such plays. The audience appeared to be well pleased, the gallery being especially demonstrative.

See advance notice of attraction tonight elsewhere.

ALLEN AND POLLARD.

Terrell Attorney and Assistant Attorney General Argue Mandamus.

Austin, Sept. 20.—The Mandamus proceedings of the Reorganized Republican party of Texas against Secretary of State Shannon to compel the secretary of state to place the names of nominees on official ticket came up Thursday morning in the supreme court. Attorney Allen of Terrell appeared for the relators, while Mr. Shannon was represented by Assistant Attorney General Pollard. William McDonald, W. B. Brush and Major W. J. Burke were spectators from the "reorganized" party, while Internal Revenue Collector Webb Flanagan of the regular Republicans, was in attendance. When the court met, Chief Justice Gaines announced that there was grave doubt in the minds of the justices as to whether on not the court during vacation could grant a mandamus of this character, when such mandamus does not seek to enforce the jurisdiction of the court.

Attorney Allen stated that the nature of the writ carried with it the power of the court to act, and if the court has the power it is not necessary for the court to be regularly in session; that an emergency has arisen demanding instant relief.

Assistant Attorney General stated he believed that the intimidation of the court as to considering mandamus during vacation was the proper construction of the constitution, as justices have no authority in vacation to issue a mandamus except to enforce a court's jurisdiction.

Associate Justice Brown raised the point that the supreme court as a general rule has appellate jurisdiction conferred upon it by the constitution, which is greater than the jurisdiction conferred by the legislature.

Chief Justice Gaines said the court would take the question under advisement.

The railroad commission Thursday heard the crossing controversy between the Texas and Pacific and Abilene and Northern railways. The latter wants to cross the Texas and Pacific at the grade in Abilene, while the trunk line is contending for a non grade crossing to force the new line over or under its tracks. A large delegation was present from Abilene.

HEARING POSTPONED.

Supreme Court Will Not Listen to Matter Until Oct. 1.

Austin, Sept. 20.—The supreme court held that it could not consider the mandamus application of "Reorganized" Republicans during vacation. Oct. 1 was set as date for hearing.

PLEA FOR PATRICK.

Nearly Three Thousand Five Hundred Petitioners Send One to Governor.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Nearly 3,500 physicians of the state, representing 551 cities and towns and including some of the best known in the profession, are signers to a petition presented to Governor Riggins on behalf of Albert T. Patrick, the lawyer convicted and under sentence of death since 1901 for the murder of the aged Texas millionaire William Marsh Rice in September, 1900. The petition reads as follows: "We, the undersigned, physicians of New York state, have read the medical testimony presented on motion for new trial to Recorder Goff in the case of Albert T. Patrick, charged with the murder of William Marsh Rice. Conclusions of experts who testified on the motion are quite at variance and are questions of novel as well as grave and important and to members of society, and especially to defendant, and therefore should be justly solved. To this end we petition your excellency to appoint a committee, composed of disinterested experts selected from the medical profession, to examine impartially into the questions at issue and report its findings at as early a date as possible and thus avoid the possibility of mistake in the case of Patrick, as well as to get a final and just solution of the question.

The medical question involved, vital in the conviction of Patrick, is whether congestion of the lungs, alleged to have been found in the autopsy on Rice's body, could have been caused by embalming fluid, or must be the result of chloroform with which Jones, Rice's valet, in one of his several contradictory confessions said he killed the old man by Patrick's direction."

The petition was presented by F. O. Logan, a prominent Chicago business man, who was a partner of John T. Milliken, whose wife is Patrick's sister; Lyman C. Smith of Syracuse, and Samuel B. Thomas of New York, counsel for Patrick. Mr. Thomas said the request for the signatures had not been sent to physicians of the state until the second week in July, and up to date nearly 3,600 returned their signatures and more are coming in every mail. Only four physicians, Mr. Thomas says, and one of them indirectly connected with the case, returned the petition with a refusal to sign.

With the petition filed are about 250 letters from prominent physicians, several of them addressed to the governor and sent through Mr. Thomas, reinforcing the former petition.

A marked feature of these letters is the contempt expressed by many of the writers for "expert testimony" rendered for pay of one side or the other in criminal cases.

London, Sept. 20.—Three Leviathans were launched from various shipyards of Great Britain Thursday. They were the Shannon, the longest armored cruiser in the world; the new Cunarder, a sister ship and identical to the turbine steamer Lutisiana, and the White Star Liner Adriatic, which is next to the largest Cunarder, is the largest ship afloat.

The Adriatic was the first of the trio to take to the water. She is the largest vessel ever built at Belfast. Her displacement is 40,000 tons. She is 710 feet long, 75 feet 6 inches beam and 59 feet 6 inches deep. Her gross tonnage is nearly 25,000. The Adriatic has nine decks and seven cargo holds.

Mark Twain Insists It Be Given a Trial By

ASSOCIATED PRESS

PERSISTENT USE FOR THREE MONTHS

Will Make the Readers of the Newspapers, He Said, Lovers of System.

New York, Sept. 20.—The annual meeting of the members of the Associated Press was held in this city Wednesday. Important matters in connection with the service were disposed of.

At night the members, who include publishers, editors and other representatives of newspapers taking the Associated Press service, met with several guests at dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Melville E. Stone, general manager of the Associated Press, presided, and with him at the guests' table were Samuel E. Clemmons, (Mark Twain), who discussed "Reform Spelling;" General Horace Porter, former American ambassador to France, who responded to the toast, "Our Guests;" Henry A. Sute, the author, who talked of "Critics," and Professor George E. Vincent of the University of Chicago, who spoke on "Purely Academic."

After the guests and members were seated, after the custom of the Associated Press dinners, the loving cup was passed, and each member drank, each in turn being introduced to the guests.

"Then truth is," replied Mr. Clemens, "the inspiration was due to a jug that some one carried in. That club is still running."

Mr. Clemens spoke in characteristic vein. He said in part: "I am here to make an appeal to the nation in behalf of the simplified spelling. I have come here because they cannot all be reached except through you. There are only two forces that can carry light to all corners of the globe. Only two—the sun in the heavens and the Associated Press down here. I may seem to be flattering the sun, but I do not mean it so. I am meaning only to be just and fair all around. You speak with a million voices; no one can reach so many races, so many hearts and intellects as you, except Rudyard Kipling, and he cannot do it without your help. If the Associated Press will accept and use our simplified forms, and thus spread them to the ends of the earth, covering the whole spacious planet with them as with a garden of flowers, our difficulties are at an end."

"Every day of the 365, the only pages of the world's countless newspapers that are read by all the human beings and angels and devils that can read, are those pages that are built out of the Associated Press dispatches. And so I beg you, I beseech you—oh, I implore you—to spell them in the simplified form. Do this daily, constantly, persistently for three months—only three months, is all I ask. The infallible result? Victory, victory, all down the line."

"For by that time all eyes here and above and below will have become adjusted to the change and in love with it. The present clumsy and ragged forms will be grotesque and revolting to the soul. And we shall be rid of phthisis and phthisis and pneumonia and pneumatic and pterodactyl and all other insane words, which no man addicted to the simplified Christian life can try to spell and not lose some of the bloom of his piety in the demoralizing attempt. Do not doubt it. We are chameleons, and prejudices change places with an easy and blessed facility, and we are soon wonted to the change and happy in it. We do not regret losing our old yellow fangs and snags and tuishes after we have worn nice fresh uniform store teeth a while."

"Do I seem to be seeking the good of the world? That is the idea. It is my public attitude. Privately, I am merely seeking my own profit. We all do it; but it is sound, and it is virtuous, for no public interest is anything other or nobler than a massed action of private interests. In 1893, when the simplified spelling movement first tried to make a noise, I was indifferent to it. More. I even irreverently scoffed at it. What I needed was an object lesson, and I got it."

Here the speaker related an anecdote of having once been requested to write ten pages of copy for a magazine when words of not less than from ten to twenty letters were employed, at 7 cents a word, thereby suffering great pecuniary loss, and continuing:

"From that day to this I have been a devoted and hard working member of the heaven-born institution, the international association for the prevention of cruelty to authors, and now I am laboring with Carnegie's simplified committee, and with my heart in the work."

"Simplified spelling can convey any fact you want to convey, and it can pour out emotions like a sewer. I beg you, I beseech you, to adopt our spelling, and print your dispatches in it."
